

I am 100% opposed to lowering broadcasting decency standards. I was shocked and dismayed when David Ortiz recently used profanity in a nationally broadcast ceremony to honor the victims and responders of the Boston Marathon bombing. It was disgusting and completely unnecessary. I was further shocked and dismayed when my teenage children thought it was "cool" and then told me "that is just the way it is today". And, I was amazed and ashamed that your organization dismissed it and then made excuses for allowing that behavior. I firmly believe our children and young adults are already experiencing the negative ramifications of special interest groups, Hollywood, the music industry, and the media's attack against decency and character in this nation. Loosening the standards regarding obscenity, nudity, and other indecency will only encourage and allow this problem to multiply. I do not want me or my family to be exposed to more profane language and sexually explicit material within the media.
